While this scene was being enacted in the front of the house, the firemen were engaged in the back, removing other members of the family from the rear. Mrs. Tracy ndeavored to escape the raging element by dropping herself from her bedroom window, and in the effort to decrease the distance to the ground, grasped the narrow ar as she was able. She was immediately aken to the house of a neighbor, Dr. kheem, and placed upon a lounge in his sitting-room. She was perfectly conscious, and did not seem to suffer pain. Occasionally she complained of oppression in the re-gion of her heart, and found difficulty in breathing. She talked awhile, coughed slightly and then became silent. The phyicians looked at each other significantly.

Mrs. Tracy was dead. The immediate cause of her death was supposed to be injuries to her heart sustained in the fall from the window, which flooded her lungs with blood. It is said that had she delayed her movements a couple of ninutes, ladders and mattresses and other remove him to Judge Davis's house. He improved slowly from that time one and soon regained consciousness, recognizing friends who called to inquire in regard to his condition. Among the first of these were the President, Vice-President and several members of the Cabinet. The full extent of his terrible affliction was withheld from him for a time. His first inquiry upon recovering consciousness was in regard to the safety of his family. He is gradually gaining in strength. His friends are very sauguine of his complete recovery.

Of the French maid little is known save that her dead body was found in her room on the top floor of the house, burned beyond recognition. The bodies of Miss Tracy and the maid were taken to an undertaker's establishment in the vicinity.

The house was completely gutted by the fire. The walls are standing, but the interior presents a picture of ruin and desolation. Mrs. Tracy, wife of Secretary Tracy, and Miss Tracy, his youngest daughter, and Josephine, a French maid, as a result of the fire, now lie dead.

Secretary Tracy was this afternoon still in a stupor, suffering from the effects of inhaling the smoke. Ars. ANOTHER ACCOUNT.

Mrs. Tracy's Heroism-Her Daugh ter Met Death While Praying. WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—[By the Associted Press.] Secretary and Mrs. Tracy occupied the back-room on the second story. Mrs. Tracy, it is thought, was the first awakened by the suffocating smoke. Sec retary Tracy was at the time unconscious, and Mrs. Tracy, with heroic devotion, at-tempted to drag the inanimate body of the Secretary to a window. In this she partially succeeded. Half-dazed and blinded oke, she opened the window, and just is the firemen were putting up a ladder to body was picked up with severe internal injuries and a broken leg. She was taken to a neighboring house, and without recovto a neighboring house, and without recovering consciousness died within an hour. The ladder which would have saved Mrs. Tracy's life, had she waited but a brief moment before leaping to the sidewalk, was soon placed under the window and strong hands lifted the body of Secretary Tracy through it and carried him to the sidewalk. The Secretary was at first thought to be dead, but it was discovered that a small spark of life yet remained. At 11 o'clock he was reported to be improving, though at that time he had not gained consciousness, and was, of course, unaware of the death of his wife and daughter.

DIED WHILE PRAYING.

DIED WHILE PRAYING. Miss Tracy, the Secretary's unmarried daughter, occupied the third-story front room, and met a terrible fate. The young room, and met a terrible fate. The young lady could be seen at the window in the light that flickered in between the blinding smoke and flames, clad in a white robe, her hands in the attitude of prayer and her face uplifted to heaven. The flames gradually semmed her in and she finally sank to the noor only to be recognized again by her charred remains. The French Maid, Josephine, uset a similar fate in an adjoining room, where her charred and blackened remains were found.

Miss Alice, occupied the second-story front room, on the same face with the Secretary and Mrs. Tracy, and while the shock to both was severe, neither received, so far as is now apparent, any serious injury. Mrs. Wilmerding had her right wrist badly sprained. She is lying hysterical and in a half-dazed condition, but is rapidly improving under treatment. Miss Alice is suffering from the shock. Mrs. and Miss Wilmerding are at Dr. Baxter's, but will, during the day, be taken to the residences of Senator Hale. Around all these residences great crowds congregated as soon as the sad news spread, and have remained all during the morning. Carriages and messengers are stopping at the doors momentairly.

Members of the Cabinet, with whom Sectorary Tracy was very popular, were among the first to call. They were all shocked beyond measure at the calamity, and placed their respective houses at the disposal of the afflicted family.

THE SECRETARY IMPROVING.

Dr. Wales, who is one of the physicians in attendance upon Secretary Tracy, said this afternoon that the Secretary was getting along very well and that the only danger now to be feared is that the smoke in nis lungs will cause bronchitis. The Secretary was bearing up bravely in his great affliction.

Then they took the man out and it proved to be the Secretary. I could not move him any further for I was exhausted. Then I went back into the smoke and fire and found the young lady, Mary Tracy. As I caught hold of her wrists to lift her up the flesh came off her burning hands. She was dead."

C." he made up his mind that wood had used the initials and filled in the name in making the forgery. Witness sometimes signed "J. E. C." to short note. He was never interested in ballot-boxes or any contract bearing upon them. He introduced the Bailot-box Bill at the request of T. C. Campbell. Cambbell brought one of the ballot-boxes to Washington, and said the Elections Committee was going to deal with the subject of his bailot-box before them. He had spoken to Representative Grosvenor, and now came to him [J. E. Campbell), as a Democratic introduction would give the bill a better standing. Just before his speech in Cincinnati October 4th, a reporter for the Cincinnati Post showed him a card from Halstead ir "Halstead is a liar, and if he can prove anything of that kind, I will get off the Democratic ticket."

The Board of Public Works reports the various recommendations heretofore published, and they were approved.

An ordinance providing for the widening and extension of Griffin avenue was read and adopted. This extension is to be made for the purpose of connecting with the Pasadean boulevard.

Mayor Hazard sent in the following message:

I believe will result in benefit to the public service.

I took occasion in that message to state: "I don't know of any remedy except to insist in the future upon a strict compliance with the law, which does not permit the purchase of supplies or the incurring of any indebtedness by an officer of the city in the absence of an ordinance authorizing him to do so."

And retail the city in the service of the city in the absence of an ordinance authorizing him to indebtedness by an officer of the city in the absence of an ordinance authorizing him to do so."

And yet all these bills this day returned have been incurred since that date without any ordinance authorizing the same; but I still induke the hope that the approval of them by your honorable body did not indicate an intention to ignore the law on the subject, but rather that the law plainty outlined in my previous messages has been overlooked, on the supposition that the message containing it was a "scolding message," and not intended to induce the Council to observe the law. The fact that no regard was paid to that message has resulted in the rejection of all these demands and the delay in the payment of worthy claims. And to ignore the contents of this message and to approve these demands in their present condition, notwithstanding my rejection thereof, will remove all doubts as to the intention of your honorable body to ignore the law on the subject, and leave but one alternative to me. Therefore I ask that the contents of this communication be considered—not in the light of a "scolding message" (because I am peculiarly gratified by the action of your honorable body in determining to loan out the public funds and to advertise for competitive bids for all supplies), but a good faith endeavon on my part to have, what I believe, the law complied with, and if, after a careful consideration of the subject, your honorable body shall approve these demands in their present form, your right to do so can only be settled by a resort to the courts.

At all events, provisions should be made, any should be fixed, and their tenure of office and the amount of their saiarles should not rest on the discretion of certain members of the Council.

THE TOAL CASE.

FULL TEXT OF THE SUPREME COURT DECISION

How It Will Affect the Police Courts of This City-They Will Be Compelled to Try Cases Under the Charter Only-Considerable Talk Among Lawyers.

The police judges of Los Angeles, Judges Stanton and Owens, were yesterday in a high state of perturbation over the decision of the Supreme Court in the Frank Toal case, by which they seem be knocked sky-high. There was also a great deal of inter-There was also a great deal of interest manifested in legal and political circles in the city about the effect of the decision, and its importance seemed to be very thoroughly realized. Those most interested sought the Supreme Court Clerk's office bright and early to see if the opinion had arrived, in order that they might obtain the full text of the decision. The mail brought the opinion and it was in use all day, a number of copies being made of it.

The following is the decision:

The defendant was convicted of an assault with intent to commit murder. From the judgment of conviction, an order overruling his motion on arrest of judgment and an order denying his motion for a new trial be appealed.

The order overruling the motion is accessed.

ruling his motion on arrest of judgment and an order denying his motion for a new trial be appealed.

The order overruling the motion in arrest of judgment is not itself appealable by the defendant, but may be reviewed on his appeal from the judgment. (People vs. Mr. Jors, 65 Cal., 100.)

The main points relied on by the defendant seems to be that the police court of the City of Los Angeles, before the judge of which his preliminary examination was had, and by whose order he was committed for trial before the Superior Court of Los Angeles county, was not a legal court, that the judge thereof was not authorized by the Constitution of the State to perform any of the functions whatever as a committing or other magistrate.

The defendant made a motion in due time that the information be set aside upon the ground that before the filing thereof he had not legally been committed by a magistrate under section 995 of the Penal Code.

If, in fact, he was not legally committed by a magistrate, the point made is well taken. (People vs. Ah Fook, 64 Cal., 382; Kalloch vs. Superior Court, 56 Cal., 299.)

In support of his contention, the defendant deciares that the provisions of the charter of the city of Los Angeles, under and by virtue of which L. Stanton, the Police Judge, who sat as committing magistrate in his case, and claims to exercise the functions of a magistrate are in violation of article 4, section 1, of the State Constitution. That the joint resolution, under which the charter was adopted by the Legislature as a whole, to be found in acts 1889, page 512, was without force and effect, so far as it concerned the establishment of a police court in said city.

That resolution, omitting the preamble and charter, which precede it, reads as tollows: "Resolved by the Senate of the State of California, the Assembly thereof concurring (a majority of all the members elected to each nouse voting for and concurring therein), that said charter be, and the same is, hereby approved as a whole for and as the charter of said city the same is, hereby approved as a whole for and as the charter of said city of Los Angeles."

Was this a proper legislative method of enacting a law which would establish a legal inferior court, such as article 6, section 1, of the State Constitution warrants?

That section of the above-named article reads thus: "The judicial power of the State shall be vested in the Senate, sitting as a court of impachment in a Sugrame Court. Superior Court, justices of the page and such interior court as the legislature may establish in any incorporated city or town, or city and county."

It is conceded by the appellant that the Supreme Court of California in Brooks was. Fisher (21 Pacific Reports, 652,) has held that the charter above referred to was heightly adopted, and valid in most of its provisions which brines into existence a police court, and invests it with the functions of a committing magistrate, that there has been no adjudication of their validity. Section 13 of article 6 of the State Constitution is: "The Legislature shall fix by law the jurisdiction of any inferior courts which may be established in pursuance of section 1 of this article, and shall fix by law the powers, duties, and responsibilities of the judges thereof."

It seems clear from the language seed in powers, duties and responsibilities of judges thereof," t seems clear from the language seed in the judges thereof."

It seems clear frem the language sed in these constitutional provisions that it was the intention of those who framed that instrument, in establishing inferior courts, such as the one under consideration, to declare that it must be done by the passage of an act of the Legislature, and its approval by the Governer, or upon his veto thereof, must be passed again by two-thirds of the members of each house voting therefor, and must become a law in the same manner as any other law is to be enacted under. A heated race took place, and three shots were fired at the fleeing Chiamann, which failed to bring him down, but brought the sack to the ground with 18 nice chickens that he must prevail in all cases, unless a different rule is established, pertaining to the bringing into existence of inferior courts, under provisions of charters, such as that of Los Angeles.

This difference can only exist, if it be authorized at all, by the sixteenth amendment to the State Constitution, amending the eighth section of article 3 of the Constitution, to be found in laws of 1887, pp. 88, 89 and 90.

The opinion them quotes from the amendment allowing cities containing a population of more than ten thousand inhabitants to frame a charter by a board of freeholders, and continues:

Does this amendment to the Constitution.

thousand inhabitants to frame a charter by a board of freeholders, and continues:

Does this amendment to the Constitution of 1879, as to such courts as the one in hand, which the Los Angeles charter seeks to establish, supersede the provisions of the Constitution which were existent at the time of its ratification, and which we have heretofore cited? If not, then the establishment of the Police Court, the Judge of which acted as an examining magistrate in this case, was without due form of law, and the court thus attempted to be established does not exist, its acts are void and the defendant was not legally committed by a magistrate.

We do not think in so important a matter as this, viz.: the changing of the form by which inferior courts shall be established by law, in cities of the class to which Los Angeles belongs, that the sixteenth amendment supra should be held to have so farreaching an effect, and that in this way the important provisions of the Constitution, which before its passage existed, should be held to be struck dead.

Again the amendent declares that if such charter is "approved by a majority vote of the members elected to each House it shall become the charter of sinch city, and the organic law thereof, and shall supersede any existing charter, and any amendments thereof, and all special laws inconsistent with and subject to the existing Constitution and all general laws, but that any preceding charter or amendment suprace to be superseded by the spproval of the Legislature alone.

In other words, the force and effect of the exteenth amendment supra, as applied to charters of cities containing over ten and under one hundred thousand inhabitants is the manner prescribed by the majority of the qualified voters of the city owhich it is to apply, shall be submitted to the Legislature for its approved by a majority vote of the members elected to each flouse it shall become the charter of such city and the erganic law thereof, and shall supersede any existing charter, and any amendment thereof, and tants, which depend alone for their validity upon a joint resolution of approval of the charter by a majority of the members of the Legislature, but not in any way approved by, submitted to, or passed on by the Governor, are consistent with or subject to the constitutional provisions and general laws in existence at the time of the ratification of the sixteenth amendment suppra, which constitutional provisions prescribe a different method for the stablishment of such a court as the charter provisions bring into existence?

And can a constitutional amendment which contains such limitations as those existing in the sixteenth amendment supra be said to supersede the necessity of establishing an inferior court in the manner which the prior sections of the Constitution point out a propaga.

existing in the sixteenth amendment suppra be said to supersede the necessity of establishing an inferior court in the unanner which the prior sections of the Constitution point out as proper?

We do not think that the sixteenth amendment is susceptible of the construction claimed for it, and we are of the opinion that it plainly declares to the contrary, viz., that all existing constitutional provisions and general laws in force at the time of its adoption are continued in full force and effect, and control any such charter. And this view is strengthened when we come to consider section 6 of article it in reference to corporations, which concludes in these words: "And all charters thereof formed or adopted by authority of the Constitution shall be subject to and controlled by general laws."

If the whole charter had been duly passed by the legislature and approved by the Governor, or passed over his veto, and in all respects taken the ordinary form of legislative enactment under the Constitution, we are not prepared to say, if no general law upon the same subject remained in force, but that a police or other inferior court thus established would be within the terms of the constitutional provisions above referred to.

There is another feature connected with the matter in hand, which, although not urged, is yet, under the circumstange of such importance as to deserve at least passing mention. It is a well-known fact, as we think, not only (as appears from the prevalue) of the resolution adopting the charter of Los Angeles), that it is a city of more than thirty and under one hundred thousand inhabitants; but that it is a city of more than thirty and under one hundred thousand inhabitants; but that it is a city of more than therefore tested is also unconstitutional in another point of view, in this, that it is obnovious to the so-called Whitney Act, which is adverted to by the Appellate Court in the lately-decleded bank case, exparte Ah You, No. 20,586. THE ghoulish glee with which the Express gloats over the fact of its getting the sad news of the Washington tragedy 15 hours ahead of its rivals savors strongly of the Police Gazette.

It suits us very well, but it will not be apparent and his want of taste was shown in omitting a stanza of his best air, the last of the control of the to take.

THE New York Herald's foreign countries' editor has been reading THE TIMES, and has discovered that there are other wonderful places in the world besides Central Africa. The Herald says:

Think of four pears weighing 20 pounds and three onlons 21 pounds; a potato 14 inches long and peaches 12 to 15 inches in eircumference; heads of wheat containing from 100 to 150 grains and a sheaf of oats nine feet high; 36 feet of grapevine grown in one year and a cabbage seven weeks old measuring six feet across the top of its expanded leaves; a squash kicking the beam at 304 pounds, one of 167 being classed as a middle weight, and a 120-pounder as a light weight. These, according to the Los Angeles Times, are specimens of California's champion products. California is a great State.

Now that we are discussing methods of retrenchment, public and private, to suit the times, we might give some attention to the extravagance of modern American funerals, which often bankrupt the survivors of a poor family. 'In Mexico they go to the other extreme. The corpse is tightly wrapped in century-plant matting and placed in a coffin rented for about 25 cents. One or two natives, as the case may be, place the coffin on their heads and go on a trot to the grave, where the body is interred and the coffin is then returned. The wealthy class use the street cars as hearses, and the friends follow the car on foot. .

THE WASHINGTON TRAGEDY.

The awful calamity at Washington yesterday, by which Secretary Tracy lost two members of his family—a wife and Taughter—is one of those inscrutable dispensations of Providence or Nature, or Fate, which paralyze comment, and make any expressions of sympathy appear commonplace, in view of the polgnant sorrow which the afflicted survivors must feel. If any moral may be drawn from this sad event, it is this, that in this age of inventions and luxuries, when almost every convenience that the mind can conceive of is at the command of those who are able and willing to pay therefor, it is a crying shame that the flames should still be permitted to claim their daily holocausts of innocent victims, in their homes, in hotels, in theaters, on the rail and at sea. Surely, while we are devoting time and millions of money to devices for prolonging the life of steel rails; to preventing bridge piles from decaying, and to saving our forest timber from destruction, we might afford to spend a little time and a small portion of our surplus wealth in trying to prevent, if only ten per cent, of the number of awful deaths by fire, which are now an every-day occurrence.

This sad event, following so closely on the death of two of Mr. Blaine's children, is another example of the truth of the old adage that "Misforunes never come alone." The result will be a very quiet social season at Washington, for dancing and gayety in the presence of such deep sorrow in the families of two of the President's advisers would be too much like merrymaking in a graveyard.

THE POSTOFFICE CLERKS' PLEA

The postoffice clerks of the country are moving to secure eight hours' work, a vacation of 30 days each year, and increased pay. These are things that employés in many other branches of business would much like to obtain, including newspaper men. However, the postoffice clerks are assuredly a hard-working, conscientious body of men. We shall be pleased to see them attain their object. In order to further their claims they have formed a national association, and will hold a convention at Washington during the present session of Congress. The Los Angeles clerks are moving in the matter also. Senator Davis has promised

AMUSEMENTS.

GRAND OPERA-HOUSE.—The concluding performance of the Emma Juch Opera Company in Mignon last night was, with the exception of Carmen, the most brilliant of the season, from a musical point of the role of "Mignon," and interprets it with a delicacy and refinement which are all her own. Her singing of the air, "Know'st Thou the Land?" was marked by exquisite taste and feeling, and the "Swallow Due." in the same act, was as charmingly rendered. Not less telling was her rendering of the "Zingarella" aria with the beautiful "Styrienne" refrain, one of the most pooular songs in the whole opera. Taken altogether, the fair prima donna has shown to most advantage in the rôle of "Mignon," the music of which seems best suited to her sweet, light voice and delicate methods of interpretation. GRAND OPERA-HOUSE.—The concluding

The opera was advertised as in three acts, but the second act being divided into two portions, a large number of the audience left the house when the curtain descended upon the flaming castle, thinking the opera was over, and thus missed some of the best music.

Los Angeles Theater.—A new company opened last night in Augustin Daly's comedy, A Night Off, at this theater. There was a large audience present, and the performance gave general satisfaction. The comedy itself is highly amusing, and the eccentricities of the various characters were well brought out by Thomas Jackson as "Prof. Babbitt," C. J. FATAL SHOOTING.

The Secretary of a Corporation Kills Its Vice-President.

San Francisco, Feb. 3.—[By the Associated Press.] Mark M. Herr, son-in-law of John A. Benson, was shot and killed this evening by J. J. Naughton, secretary of the Guarantee Endowment Loan Association. tion. Herr was vice-president of the company and is said to have conferred many benefits on his murderer. He was at one time Sergeant-at-Arms of the National House of Representatives. The cause of the act is not yet learned, but is believed to involve the funds of the company.

The only witness of the shooting was H. S. Brewer, an agent of the company. He and Naugnton were close friends. In regard to the murder, Brewer says Herr entered the office and assaulted Naughton, with a heavy stick. Naughton, dodged for awhile, but finally fired, in self-defense, four shots. THAT MYSTERY.

The Woman with the "Bottle" Is Discovered.
The mystery of the First-street vitriol throwing case has been solved. Detective Bowler vesterday located the woman, and last evening he and Detective Wallin found her in room No. 11, at the old Arlington House, on Com-mercial and Los Angeles streets. So far mercial and Los Angeles streets. So far as can be learned, the affair seems to have been the outcome of a drunken spree. The woman is a notorious prostitute named "May." She, in company with her "lover" and a stranger, visited a saloon, and when they came out, the "lover" threw a bottle of carbolic acid at the stranger, striking him in the back and knocking him down, when the bottle fell on the sidewalk and was smashed.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—By the Associated Presa.] The Supreme Court of the United States today rendered an opinion affirming the constitutionality of the Ed-munds-Tucker Idaho test oath, intended to

The case came up on au application for a

The case came up on an application for a writ of habeas corpus made by Samuel B. Davis, who is in jail in Idaho, having been sentenced for unlawfully taking the prescribed test eath when he was a member of the Mormon Church.

The court denies the application for a writ of habeas corpus, holding that polygamy is a crime, and that the constitutional provision guaranteeing freedom of religion is not intended to prevent the punishment of any person who, in the name of religion, commits a crime in the eyes of the law.

The Court, in its opinion, sys: "Bigamy and polygamy are crimes by the laws of the United States and of Idaho. They tend to destroy the purity of the marriage relation, to disturb the peace of families, degrade women and debase men. Few crimes are more pernicious to the best interests of society and receive more general or more deserved punishment. To call their advocacy a tenet of religion is to iffend the common sense of manking; to extend exemption from punishment for such crimes would be to shock the moral judgment of the community. It is assumed by counsel for the petitioner, because no mode of worship can be established by law or religious tenets enforced in this country; that therefore any form of worship may be followed, and any tenets, however destructive of society, may be held and advocated if asserted to be part of the religious doctrines of those advocating and preaching them. But nothing is further from the truth. While legislation for the establishment of religion is forbidden, and its free exercise is permitted, it does not follow that everything which may be so called can be tolerated. Crime is not less excused because sanctioned by what any particular sect may designate as religion." excused because sanctioned by what any particular sect may designate as religion."

THE APACHE PRISONERS.

Strong Plea Against Their Removal to Fort Sill.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—|By the Associated Press. W. L. Ryerson, Brewster Cameron, W. H. Llewellyn and George Cheyat, for many reach past residents of Arizona and New Mexico, have written a letter to Senator Dawes, chairman of the Committee on Indian Affairs, strenuously protesting against the removal of the Apache Indians, now prisoners at Mt. Ver-non Barracks, Ala., to Fort Sill, L.T., as chanf, who died at Borden on the Sist uit, was buried on Sunday at Madera. The funeral service was largely attended by white people who desired to show their respect for the deceased. A CATTLE CASE

A Decision Affecting Stockmen in the West.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—[By the Associated Press.] The Supreme Court today affirmed the judgment of the Utah courts in the case of Buford et al. against Houtz et al., in which the former, who owns 350,000 acres of unenclosed grazing land, asked for an injunction to prevent Houtz from allowing cattle to trespass upon Baford's land. Buford's property is the oddford's land. Buford's property is the oddnumbered sections of railro ad land, and the effect of an injunction would be to prevent Houtz and others from using 570,000 acres of public land, and give the latter a monopoly of this much of the public domain.

The Court stys that it is the common law of highly cultivated countries that grazers must keep their animals off unenclosed lands belonging to others, but that such a doctrine would be greatly injurious to a sparsely settled frontier region. The custom and consent of all departments of the Government for nearly 100 years have given an implied license to the people to graze upon open and unenclosed outlet lands, and that it has always been held in the frontier regions that a man was not liable for trespass if his cattle strayed from public lands to unenclosed private land. The States in

In concluding the argument in the case, Gen. Stiles, for the defendant, said that by public clamor against one of the jurors in the Cronin case, the jury in the West case was influenced to bring in a conviction.

Col. Munn, in closing for the State, pointed out the danger in this country of great criminals going free and only little ones being convicted.

Judge Grinnell briefly summed up the points in the case, overruled the motion for a new trial, and allowed an exception. It is not yet determined when West will be taken to the penitentiary.

The American House of Representatives has been, during all this time, and still is, so far as rules for its government are concerned, in precisely the same condition as a popular meeting or political convention, in which the chairman and his partisans absolutely control all proceedings. Mr. Outhwaite, after arguing in support of the contestee, defended the Democratic party in attempting to postpone consideration of the case, and argued that it was perfectly proper for it to seek protection under a code of rules.

Mr. Lacey of Iowa advocated the claims of the contestant and Mr. Moore of Texas those of the contestee.

Mr. Wilson of West Virginia, while not addressing himself especially to the consideration of the election case, made an entirely good-humored speech in criticism of the recent rulings of the Speaker, which elicited great applause and laughter from both sides, and the Speaker could not himself repress an occasional smile.

Mr. Wilson said he could now tell what parliamentary law was. General parliamentary law made it possible not only for a one-eyed man to be speaker, but for him to be at an advantage, especially if the blind eye happened to be toward the side of the House where the minority sat. In the new era, under general parliamentary law, the lobbylst would not be obliged to go around and give checks to individual members. The Speaker passed bills, Speaker approved the journal, and the lebbylst would not bother with members, but "see" the Speaker.

A SAD CASE.

A Woman Dies Through the Ignorance of a Midwife.

Coroner Meredith held an inquest at Garrett & Sampson's, on Main street, last evening, on the body of a French nan named Leonie Aluset, died at her home, at No. 122 Aliso street, yesterday morning, under peculiarly distressing circumstances. The woman's husband is an ignorant laborer, and is in very poor circumstances, hardly being able to supply his family with the necessaries of life. Yesterday a week ago Mrs. Aluset was taken in labor, and a French midwite named Louise Perret was called in. The poor woman was in great pain, but nothing was done to relieve her. She continued in this state until Friday afternoon, when Dr. Beaudinnat was called in. He saw at died at her home, at No. 122 Aliso relieve her. She continued in this state until Friday afternoon, when Dr. Beaudinnat was called in. He saw at once that the case was a desperate one, and that unless relief was afforded the woman would die, as she was greatly exhausted. He called in Health Officer MacGowan, and an examination was made which showed that the case was what is technically known as a "shoulder presentation." Dr. John Haynes was then called in to assist in the operation, and the woman was delivered of a dead child. Every thing possible was done for the poor creature, but it was too late, and she died yesterday morning of puerperal fever. Dr. Beaudinnat reported the case to the Health Officer, who declined to issue a certificate, and, in turn, reported it to Coroner Meredith, who ordered a post mortem, and last evening held an inquest. The husband of the dead woman and several friends were examined, after which the physicians testified as to the result of the autopsy, which clearly demonstrated that death had resulted from criminal negligence. Mrs. Perret was sick and could not be present six thousand dollars in excess of the contracts.

Health Officer MacGowan explained that vaccination was not a local matter, but the State Board of Health had ordered that all children should be vaccinated before they are allowed to attend the public schools, and suggested that a fee of 50 ceuts be allowed physicians for the vaccinations of indigent children, and that the school board should furnish the vaccine matter.

A general discussion followed, in which the State vaccination law was read, when Mr. Powers moved that the said unnatural causes, and that the said unnatural causes, and that the said unnatural causes were superinduced by ignorant treatment on the part of Louise Perret.

Coroner Meredith will bring the evidence, the jury returned a verdict that the deceased, Leonie Aluset, aged 27 years, and a native of France, came to her death from unnatural causes, and that the said unnatural causes were superinduced by ignorant treatment on the part of Louise Perret.

Coroner Meredith will bring the case to the attention of the District Attorney, and an effort will be made to have the woman prosecuted.

In Interesting Decision by Judge Clark-The Court Would Like to Find the Writer of a Queer Letter-A Number of Small Cases Disposed of Yesterday.

The divorce case of James vs. James was decided by Judge Clark yesterday in Department No. 2 of the Superior Court, a decree being granted to Mrs. James from her husband, the Rev. G. W. James. The peculiar and demoralizing theories of the Rev. James have become well known to the public in through his examination by the church court at Long Beach, and the testimony of Mrs. James upon the divorce trial. Judge Clark, in handing down his decision, made public for the first time a very singular attempt on the part of some unwise friend of the Rev. James to influence the Court in its decision. It was an anonymous letter, and it was directed to be filed with the papers in the case, the Court saying that he only of the case, the Court saying that he only of the case, the court saying that he only of the case, the court saying that he only of the case. Court, a decree being granted to Mrs.

there is a good deal of interest as regards what will be your decision in the James divorce case. As an attorney of many years' practice, I am convinced that the whole thing is a put up job against the Professor. The ministers are all jealous of hur and were determined to oust him, and they did so boldly. And the trouble with his wife is that she is insanely jealous of him. He is the smartest man in the M. E. Church, and the ministers all know it. Therefore, for the sake of justice, do not be led by the jealousies of those men. Otis of The TIMES knows James is all right and so does the proprietor of the Herald, and are not backward in saying so. Give James a chance and he will surprise all with his doings in the future. The most influential men in the city are rallying around him now, and deciare their faith in him. Help him, Judge, and you will not regret it, I assure you, evidences of which you will soon see if you show him mercy.

Judge Clark also rendered a decision in the case of C. S. Bradford vs. W. P. He decided in favor of the defendant, refusing to grant a dissolution.

The lecture of C. T. Hopkins tonight at the Universalist Church should be well attended for several reasons. Such cases are known, and in any event the situation deserves the attention of thinking men and women. If we believe there is need of care, let us look it in the face intelligently. We can do something. We can insist upon our young people living as much out of doors as possible. Encourage them in all manly sports. Encourage them to ride, hunt and to give a certain amount of time to their physical selves. Some people are often accused of being patrons of sport to the detriment of potatoes and hogs. These esthetic articles should not be discouraged, yet everybody in Pasadena cannot engage in their culture, and so they encourage manly will produce better and healthier men and women in coming generations.

All the animals are kind and it is thought will be easily trained. The wires are supported on posts or poles, which, as a rule, are not high enough, and which are sometimes made of iron, and which are sometimes made of iron, a perfect conductor of the current, instead of wood, which, when dry, is a nonconductor. On these posts are insulators, which interpose a very few inches of nonconducting surface between the metal wire and the metal post; and even this insulation is diminished at least que-half in case of rain or fog. The posts become thus sources of danger as well as the wires. In Pasadens very low iron posts

In Pasadena very low fron posts have lately been erected, which carry the wires so much nearer the earth than the common wooden telegraph poles, that they must materially increase the danger of accidental con that. It is hardly possible that we shall escape fatal casualties in South-ern California towns, unless strict conditions are imposed on the electric light companies. Where the wires pass in the neighborhood of buildings, the danger of fire is added to the danger of life, in case of contact, from accident or from imperfect construc-

A warning which might save the life of some child, can well be given in all our common schools. The children should be told never to climb a telegraph pole, nor to touch an electric wire which has fallen to the ground, or which is swinging in the air. If iron posts are to be used, citizens generally may be advised to give them a wide berth when the arc-current is on.

A large contingent of Los Angeles wheelmen were also enjoying an airing in this part of the country Sunday afternoon. They spent most of the day at Baldwin's ranch, and toward evening rode home by way of Pasadena. Some of the local cyclists accompanied them part way on their return trip.

Next Sunday a trip will be taken to Monrovia.

A meeting will be held this evening in the clubroom to arrange for the opening of the new quarters. A "smoker" will probably be the plan of entertainment adopted.

A feature of the Sunday trip was the attempt to climb the steepest hill that rises from the arroyo to Orange Grove avenue. Mr. Frost accomplished the difficult feat twice, but the steepest the state of the first trips.

Mr. Edward J. Howell of London, England, referred to in the foregoing paragraph, arrived a few days ago, and has rooms at the East San Gabriel Hotel. Mr. Howell is the representative of the English syndicate which is the largest owner of the L. J. Rose Company (limited), and is now preparing his annual report. He is intelligent, cultivated, far-sighted, practical and aggressive in his business ideas. From conversation with him I am glad to find that he is a firm believer in the From conversation with him I am glad to find that he is a firm believer in the future of this country, and strongly advocates the planting of all the available lands in the San Gabriel Valley to oranges, lemons, deciduous fruits and vines. He proposes to establish a cannery and utilize all of the products for which there has been and will be in the future an increased demand, especially for a superior article, Be it for fruits in their natural state for shipment, canned or preserved, or wines of the different varieties, the quality is what establishes a reputation and price. He very justly observes that lands worth two to five hundred dollars per acre are far too valuable to lands worth two to five hundred dol-lars per acre are far too valuable to be planted to barley, wheat or any kind of cereals, especially so when there are thousands of acres of land in Southern California, not irrigable, which can be purchased at from ten to fifty dollars per acre, which will produce all kinds of cereals equally as well.

Mr. Howell will no doubt recommend Mr. Howell will no doubt recommend the planting of all the lands of the L. J. In any event, they will be prepared to handle the product of the vineyards in the valley, as they contemplate materially enlarging their winery, and by combining a cannery they will be prepared to handle the product of the valley. It is hoped that others will give this matter due consideration. The opportunity is offered for a home market as well as the advantages of the demand from parties desiring to buy and ship to the eastern markets; and certainly the result cannot fail to prove very satisfactory to all who interest themselves.

Brother C. H. Isburkh of this city closing the service by the delivery of an impressive address.

At the Causeway-street station of the Boston and Maine Railroad yesterday morning, on the arrival of the train at 8:30 via Montreal, the body was received by relatives and by Eminent Sir Albert H. Pierce, Past Commander of St. Omer Commandery, and later it was conveyed to the late residence of the deceased, No. 72 Magnolia street.

The funeral took place at 12:30 this afternoon from his late residence, the service being conduced by Rev. Arthur Wright of St. Ann's Episcopal Church of Dorchester, Bros. Joseph L. White, F. W. Knowles, T. H. Norris and J. K. Berry of the Mendelssohn Quartette finely rendering the musical selections.

A large number of relatives and friends were present, among the latter being representatives of St. Omer Commandery of Knights Templar, St. Matthew's R. A. Chapter, and of Gate of the Temple Lodge, A.F. and A.M., of each of which bodies he was a member. There was also a goodly representation from among his former business associates. Summer in February is the peculiar privilege of Californians.

The Pickwick Club held its annual election of officers last night. Two hours late. This, of course, refers to yesterday's overland.

Dr. Eliot on Saturday sold 20 acres of land on Allen avenue for $5000. The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Trade will be held today. The regular monthly meeting of Foresters was held yesterday evening. The members of the fire department will give a ball on the evening of February 21st.

The theater train yesterday evening to the Juch concert was well patronized. Mignon was the attraction. Yesterday was a scorcher in the sun, but no one growled for it's what we've all been longing for.

The Pleasant Prediction is Made That Drudgery Will be Abolished from the Household and the Occupation of the Domestic Servant Will be Gone. Valuable Advice for the Present Pay

Mrs. Holen E Sterrett, in a recent number of the Forum, contributes an article entitle 'Housekeeping in the Future." In it she tells how in a few years electricity will supply light for the home, the family cocking and washing will be done outside, and there will he so little work in the household that the occupation of the domestic servant will be

But Mrs. Sterrett' article is simply a predic tion, and has no more than a passing interes for the ladies who live in 1890. Their sonial and household cares are straining their deli cate nervous system, and the result is terriare growing alarmingly common. Many of them find that memory is falling; they are unable to recall the names of friends or tell whether they have performed some of their usual household duties.

Their nerves are in such a condition the very slight causes, or perhaps no cause at ail, may irritate them. Life grows to be a burden There is no need for despair, but there is great need of caution. Their nerves sho be built up, life fortified and brain restere with that remarkable preparation, Paine's Celery Compound, Instead of the depresse and languid feelings, after the Compound he een used, they will feel active, vigorous and and desire health and happiness instead of illess and misery, we earnestly urge that they act upon this advice.

Our Valentine Department is the talk of the town. We were rushed all day leng. Customers stood three deep at our counters yesterday, and all the extra help we could mustor was placed in the department to scoom modate the rush. This fact goes to prove the assertion that our prices are low, or lower than any place in the city, are so low the public quickly finds it out, and pile into our establishment by the score. We never handle a line of goods unless we can do so at the same ratio of per cent, that we do others, and still underself every body else handling the same goods.
